Great News for Residents and Expats of Koh Samui, Thailand, as SamuiWater.com goes live

7th June 2016, Koh Samui, Thailand: It is a well-known fact that humans can survive longer without food than without water. We need water for our coffee, for drinking and for cooking and yes for our sanitary needs. Water is a very essential necessity of life. And yes, over 70% of the earth is covered with water.

Koh Samui is an island and by virtue of that is surrounded by a vast body of water. However, residents of Koh Samui owing the challenges of accessing clean water, many households are left without a consistent tap water supply. Even more ironic is the fact that the island has a tropical climate with an above average of rain percentage throughout the year. Many residents rely on water delivery businesses unfortunately ordering water on the island can be pretty frustrating because of the lack of reliable contact information of water suppliers.

In view of the above, the website SamuiWater.com had been launched. The website was created to make the experience of ordering water to ones' house a bit less complicated and less stressful especially for new comers.

SamuiWater.com is a fully functional website with an extensive directory of different suppliers who deliver bulk and drinking water on Koh Samui including information such as pricing, contact details and additional useful details about the business that is very much updated and in one place. This bridges the language barriers that exist between foreigners and the local water suppliers. The website goes ahead to provide some general and helpful topics related water on the island. The website has a section covering the neighbor island of Koh Pha-Ngan too. And what is more, the website also features a frequently asked questions section (FAQ).

This of course is great news to all residents and to expats who had depended hitherto on unpredictable tap water and suppliers. Customers therefore, are presented with a wider choice of water delivery businesses to patronize should they not be satisfied with their current water source or supplier.

As they say, the only constant thing in life is change. In order to ensure the website provides its visitors with accurate information, SamuiWater.com asks for the help of residents to keep the website as updated as possible by sharing the contacts of water delivery business and companies or by expressing how satisfying the experience with them has been. This is very important since water suppliers in Thailand are very unstable in the long run.

Added to the core functionalities of providing an up-to-date directory of water suppliers, adverts can also be placed on the site. No doubt, adverts on the site will get quite a lot of exposure. This is especially true since lots of short and long term residents are going online to search for water delivery businesses and to make inquiries.

SamuiWater.com provides a comprehensive listing of businesses supplying water on Koh Samui. It is the last and best resource for anyone in the need of ordering portable water and non-portable water on the island.
